Federal, state officials dedicate Transfer Center

By ELLIS CUEVAS
Dedication ceremonies were held Thursday for the Mississippi Technology Transfer Center at the National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County.

The facility, a $4 million investment by the State of Mississippi, is signed over to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration by Governor Bill Allain.

Allain, the keynote speaker at ceremonies held in the NSTL's Visitors Center prior to the dedication ceremonies, said the new facility has already paid off the state's investments with new jobs.

Allain stated, "The Mississippi Technology Transfer Center at the National Space Technology Laboratories already has given our state an influx of new and unique technology and will give us approximately 250 quality jobs to administer technology."

"We are on the road to a world class research facility, and the Technology Transfer Center is part of that emerging technology. Through the Center, we will have access to and participate in a unique technical environment," Allain added.

Gov. Allain continued, "The end result will be the availability for Mississippi to compete at any level for high tech industries by providing them the intellectual and innovative support necessary for continued discovery and expansion of our knowledge base."

Rear Adm. Richard Truly, NASA's associate administrator for Space Flight and a former astronaut, also addressed a large crowd of state legislators, state and local officials, and business and education leaders from across Mississippi.

Jerry Hlass, director of the National Space Technology Laboratories, commented on how this is a joint endeavor by the federal government and Mississippi.

"This occasion is unprecedented at NASA and perhaps in federal government, and is a tangible asset to enhance technology transfer from the public to private sector," Hlass added.

Adm. Truly, a native Mississippian, talked about the spinoffs from space research into the private sector.

Dr. James G. Miller, state director of Technology Transfer at NSTL, stated that in the new center eight or nine small companies are starting up and, "Our job is to keep them alive and give them support that attracts investment."

Miller described the Transfer Center as a window and said, "We want to drive the whole state of Mississippi through it."

The center has created some 250 jobs and is occupied by state and federal agencies and small private industries with more jobs expected from the one-of-a-kind facility, which was created by a special act of Congress.

Roy S. Estess, deputy director of NSTL, welcomed everyone at the special ceremonies prior to the new facility dedication.

Robert Barlow, NASA Technology Utilization Officer, was among those who conducted a press conference prior to the dedication.

Supervisors to receive sewer district petition

BY DENA BISNETTE

On Monday, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors will consider a petition for expansion of the recently formed Hancock County Wastewater District No. 1.

The present district is located in part of Beat Five between the northern boundaries of Bay St. Louis and Waveland and the Jordan River, according to Lucien Gex, attorney for Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District.

The regional district will handle treatment for sewerage. With help from federal and state funds, a collection system that will be owned by the county and operated by the regional district will be constructed.

According to Gex, the county will act primarily as a user fee collection agency, although a contract with the regional district may eventually be established for that service as well.

The expansion of the district the petition is requesting adds part of Beat Four, Gex stated.

His description of the boundaries for the expanded district shows that a section of property along Longfellow Road between Highway 803 and Waveland will be included. The expansion will go as far as Four Dollar Bayou at the upper end of Bayou LaCroix, near Bayou Phillip Road.

According to Gex, the board must decide Monday whether to accept the petition and set a date for a public hearing.

No objectors appeared at the hearing prior to approval of the existing county district.

Any protest of the expansion must contain the signatures of 20 percent or 150 registered voters from the area to be included, the attorney explained.

Corps shore protection study interim report expected

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors will meet at 10 a.m. Thursday with representatives of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and Gulf Regional Planning Commission for an interim report on a shore protection study that may eventually result in a $12 million grant.

The board of supervisors committed $77,000 last year for the study and Gulf Regional Planning Commission was named local administrator of the project.

At that time, the board was asked about committing another $68,000 this year for a second phase of the study if the interim report shows that the Corps believes it is feasible to continue.

According to Board President

A.A. Kellar, the county had been told by Congressman Trent Lott that a successful study could lead to a $12 million grant for replenishment of the sand beach and other repairs necessary to stop the continuing destruction of Hancock County's shoreline.

"We're not planning to go with the second phase until we get something in writing," Kellar explained. "That's what we're supposed to do on Thursday."

"I don't mind spending money if we can see something coming back."

Beat One Supervisor Bert Courge, who arranged the meeting at the request of Gulf Regional Planning Commission Director James Head, said the study is supposed to examine economic impact to the county and provide a wetlands environmental impact report on possible shore protection measures.

"I think at this point they should be able to tell us if this thing is feasible," Courge said. "It is our only hope of getting the beach replenished."

"There is no way we could ever do it without assistance."

According to County Engineer Larry Seal, repairs to the seawall and Beach Road, which in several areas are the only shore protection devices presently existing, have cost the county an average of $200,000 annually since 1969.

Seal has been compiling figures on the expenditures to assist the Corps in determining the cost-benefit ratio of protecting the county shoreline.

"I'm very optimistic," Seal stated. "We're not going to see it tomorrow, but once the cost-benefit ratio is worked out, we may get something done."

The board is about to spend more money to patch the road and seawall.

On Monday, the supervisors are scheduled to take bids for some repairs that are immediately needed, the engineer explained.

The damaged areas in question are "pretty much scattered all along the beach" except in the city of Bay St. Louis, he added.

Much of the work will consist of replacing rails and blocks that are part of the seawall and pressure grouting hollow areas under parts of the road.

If an acceptable bid is received and all goes according to schedule, actual work should begin in mid-July, he added.

New Woman Medical Center in Bay St. Louis has been closed.

The clinic would have been open three years in July and had been the subject of controversy because the services it offered included abortions.

Picketing and prayer services had been held on the US-90 right-of-way in front of the building the clinic shared with Farmer's Home Administration.

Those protests were the subject of a 1985 Chancery Court hearing in which Chancery Judge Jason Floyd provided guidelines for the protesters but did not bar them from picketing as long as they did not do so on clinic property or pose a hazard to motorists on the highway.

Nancy Rogers, office manager of New Woman Medical Center in Jackson, said the Bay St. Louis facility has closed because "it wasn't doing enough business."

"It was draining funds from our clinic here and we could not afford to keep it open," she stated.

Rogers explained that the picketing may have affected the clinic's operations to some degree, although she did not know how much.

"The picketers may have kept patients from going there, especially because in such a small town you might see someone you know. That is not a time when you want to see someone you know," she said.

Rogers also said that she felt that the person who had originally decided to open a New Woman Medical Center in Bay St. Louis had "opened it in the wrong place" because the facility was located "right in the middle of a religious community."

The Rev. Nathan Barber, pastor of First Baptist Church in Bay St. Louis, declined comment on the closing but stated that there will be a thanksgiving celebration at 7 p.m. Monday at Bay High Stadium.

SUMMER FOOD PROGRAM—Beth Faye assists a child in reassembling a sandwich Friday at one of the two schools, St. Rose Fifth Grade Center and Waveland Elementary School, being used as facilities for a state-funded summer breakfast and lunch program being sponsored by the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District. Program Director Linda Cavagale said, "There is no charge for the meals, which will be served from 8:30 a.m. until 9:30 a.m. and noon until 1:30 p.m. Mondays through Fridays until the end of July. According to Cavagale, enrollment in the program doubled at both schools during the first week meals were served and most children are welcome. Additional information is available at 467-4545. ## SENIOR SERVICE LINE

By Matilda Charles

Do you think growing old means sitting in a rocking chair, surrounded by an engulfing silence but for the creaking of the floor boards? I certainly hope not. History and news headlines tell of individuals who continue to do important work well into their ninth decade. Well-known examples include writer Pablo Casals, mystery writer Agatha Christie, artist Pablo Picasso, and Nobel Prize winner Albert Szent-Gyorgi who continues to work at cancer research at the age of 91.

Even if mobility is limited, there is such a wide range of activities available to senior citizens today and such important contributions that can be made.

I'd like to share with you a quote sent in by an "old friend" at Elderly United.

"Youth is not a time of life — it is a state of mind. Nobody grows old by merely living a number of years. People grow old by deserting their ideals."

"You are as young as your faith, as old as your doubts, as young as your self-confidence, as old as your fears, as young as your hope, as old as your despair. In the central place of every heart is a recording chamber, so long as it receives messages of beauty, hope, cheer and courage, you are young."

"When the wires are all down and your heart is covered with the snows of pessimism and the ice of cynicism, then and then only have you grown old."

Don't you get caught with your "wires" down. Challenges are enlivening, but we must be open to them in order to meet them. Seize the opportunity to bring joy and laughter into someone else's life, share your knowledge, make use of your talents. If you are given the opportunity to make a contribution, by all means take it. And if you are somebody with the insight to recognize the unique contributions senior citizens can make, by all means extend the opportunity to do so.

Weekly state crop report

Rains help some crops, cause delay of others

MISSISSIPPI STATE—As the rains continued to fall across the state last week, some Mississippi farmers worked between rain showers to continue planting, while others welcomed the rains on their emerging crops.

Many soybean producers, hoping to complete planting by the recommended June 10 deadline, were kept out of the fields as another valuable planting week slipped by.

But for the state's corn, grain sorghum and cotton crops, the majority of which is planted and emerging, rains caused no major problems.

The state's corn crop was hurt early in the growing season by late frosts and then dry weather, said Dr. Lamar Kimbrough, an agronomist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"The result is that a lot of corn was planted late or had to be replanted and the crop is about two weeks behind schedule," Kimbrough said.

Planting of the state's 200,000 acre grain sorghum crop, down 50,000 acres from 1986, is almost complete.

According to Kimbrough, the crop is on schedule but producers are reporting weed problems.

"Some unique weather patterns have caused herbicides to not work right and this is causing weed problems in corn and grain sorghum," the agronomist said.

Planting of the state's 1.1 million acre cotton crop is more than 95 percent complete with most of the crop rated from fair to good.

In related agricultural news, county extension agents throughout the state said rains continued to delay soybean planting, and weed control problems were occurring in corn and grain sorghum crops.

In the Delta, Yazoo County Extension Agent Tim Pepper said about 95 percent of the county's 70,000 acres of cotton have been planted, but producers need dry weather to complete weed control measures.

"Producers have had an especially difficult time getting corn, cotton and soybeans planted," Pepper said. "Much of the corn acreages producers intended to plant will or has been planted to grain sorghum."

The Unknown God

Paul stood in Athens among the masterpieces of Greek art and the memorials of Greek wisdom. Here he found a religious people.

Luke tells us Paul walked around and observed the objects of their worship. Two philosophies, which held the mind and devotion of the people were the Epicurean and Stoic philosophies.

Epicurus, the founder of the Epicurean sect was born in Athens about 341 years before Christ.

Zeno, the founder of the stoic sect, was born in the Isle of Cyprus about 30 years before Christ. Other philosophers of the day were Plato and Aristotle.

The Epicureans believed one should give vent to every emotion and lust. This was the philosophy of the Rich Fool of Luke in chapter 12.

The Stoics believe one should deny pain. They prided themselves in their ability not to give vent to their emotion. Christ taught men to distinguish between right and wrong. He taught men to enjoy the good with self-control and to refuse to participate in evil.

Among the Athenian altars was an inscription 'To The Unknown God.' They evidently realized their heathen Gods did not give all of the blessings they received. Paul began his speech by saying, "Whom ye ignorantly worship, him I declare unto you." (Acts 17:23)

Man may know God exists by the observation of nature. The Psalmist exclaimed, "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth his handwork." (Psalm 19:1) However there are many things which nature does not reveal.

Paul affirmed that "God...dwelleth not in temple made with hands." (Acts 17:24)

God, the Lord of heaven and earth, made the world and all things therein. The apostle John tells us, "In the beginning was the word and the word was with God, and the word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were made by him; and without him was not anything made that was made." (John 1:13)

God is to be worshiped in spirit and truth. The place does not matter. Christians are to assemble. The author of the book of Hebrews exhorted, "Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is..." (Hebrew 10:25)

A building may be the most spacious, serviceable and comfortable place. The important matter is worship must be in spirit and in truth. (John 4:23-24) Many a cathedral is empty because those two items were not considered.

Anthony E. Loiacano

On Thursday morning in Bay St. Louis Anthony E. Loiacano died.

A Bay St. Louis merchant for many years, Anthony's popularity was shown by a packed church for a Memorial Service held for him at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church on Friday.

Anthony had many friends, some like us had known him for a lifetime, others for many years, and still others for only a few months.

Anthony's contributions to his community will long be remembered, especially by the many, many whom he personally helped.

A side of Anthony many may not have known because of his quiet way of doing things was his compassion for his fellowman in need.

Anthony would purchase food and clothing for someone in need, and no one would know this, only those on the receiving end.

Anthony always showed a concern for his beloved city and became very much involved in working for a better community as a Chamber of Commerce director.

Anthony was always fast to recognize a person who did an outstanding job, and now that he is gone, he has to be recognized as an outstanding citizen of the city of Bay St. Louis.

Anthony was our friend, so is his mother, brothers, sister and as was his late father.

All we can say to his family and many friends is that we will miss him just as you.

P.S. Anthony, we hope St. Peter had a perfect fitting robe for you when you reached the 'Pearly Gates.'

Quotables by CUEVAS

I received a telephone call from a subscriber on Friday asking us to remind motorists to be extremely careful when they spot children on our roadways.

Since school is out motorists think speed limits have changed, yet they are still in effect in the vicinity of Waveland Elementary and St. Rose DeLima Schools for the Summer Lunch Program.

Residing near one of the schools, this subscriber reports there are very young children walking to the facility without escorts.

We would like to urge all motorists to please drive carefully and slow down when you see young children alongside the roadways.

A child may dart in front of a vehicle without looking and could easily be killed or injured.

Let's all of us try and have a safe summer.

A dedication was held on Thursday for the Mississippi Technology Transfer Center at the National Space Technology Laboratories.

The facility is a joint venture between the Federal Government and State of Mississippi.

The facility has already meant some 250 high-quality jobs in Hancock County.

The Transfer Center will enable Mississippians to compete at any level for high tech industries and give them the necessary support for discovery and expansion.

Governor Bill Allain was one of the prime leaders in making this fine facility a reality for our state and was instrumental in securing the $4 million construction cost.

There are so many areas in which our citizens can be helped by the Transfer Center; one is the assistance inventors can receive. An inventor can be helped in testing a product.

We are sure our state will benefit from this fine facility for many years to come.

Thanks to each and every one of you who played a part in the construction of the Mississippi Technology Transfer Center.

A "BEST KEPT" SECRET IS OUT!

WHAT'S THE REAL COST

OF A BARREL OF MIDDLE EAST OIL TO AMERICAN CONSUMERS?

FORMER NAVY SECRETARY JOHN LEHMAN HAS REMINDED AMERICAN TAXPAYERS THAT U.S. PRESENCE IN THE PERSIAN GULF COSTS $40 BILLION PER YEAR. WHEN THAT AMOUNT IS DIVIDED BY THE 330 MILLION BARRELS WHICH THE U.S. IMPORTED IN 1986, AND ADDED TO TODAY'S $19 PURCHASE PRICE, THE RESULTS SHOW AMERICANS REALLY PAY $140 PER IMPORTED BARREL.

Drowning photo horrifies readers

June 11, 1987
Dear Sea Coast Echo,
In regard to your Sunday action photo of a four-year-old drowning victim and the horror stricken people involved, the Sea Coast Echo should receive an award.
An award because you have outdone yourself this time.
All the years of hard work printing those accident and fire photos have finally paid off.
You could have almost won an award for your photos of the body bags that were needed following that most tragic fire in Waveland where those children died. I guess they weren't graphic enough.
But this most recent photo was the clincher. Everyone whom I discussed your photo with was horror-stricken at the fact that you printed such a picture.

Printing a picture of people's souls being torn apart as they watch a child die was irresponsible! But you were there to bring it home. You have guts Sea Coast Echo.

How does it feel to be where you are?
And you wonder why the news media is looked upon with disgust.
Well let's see if you have the guts to print this one!
Anyone else out there have an opinion on this subject?

Sincerely
Eileen Wilcox Dorn

Closing highway rest stops an admission of failure and a step backward

June 8, 1987
An open letter to all public officials and concerned citizens of the state of Mississippi:
We as members of the Mississippi Unit Of WBCCI, a travel trailer club composed of Airstream trailer owners, are vitally concerned about the proposed closing of some of our rest areas along the highways of Mississippi.
We are justly proud of the rest areas in our state. They not only offer a stopping place to get out and stretch, even our information buildings and grounds are beautifully designed.
They also have ample rest rooms and excellent sanitary dumping facilities for those who travel in recreational vehicles. We know from a first hand traveling experience that they are quite possibly the finest rest areas in the United States.
Many tourists traveling through our state stop in them and they are quite impressed. Oftentimes this is the first impression they receive of us. We hold ourselves out to be the "Hospitality State" and these rest areas speak well for us.
We are also aware that they do cost money to operate and that there are those who undoubtedly abuse them. We certainly understand that the criminal element also finds their way into them at various times.
By the same token we do not know of anything beneficial or worthwhile that does not suffer some abuse at a cost to us, the taxpayers. At the same time we do not know of any place in our society where the criminal element has not penetrated.
In another vein we seem to remember that the Interstate system and these rest areas were built with our increased gas taxes, which we still pay to this day. We were told then that these rest areas were to be a vital part of the interstate system. Their usage in the last 25 years has more than proven this to be true.

As a tourist state Mississippi does not rank up at the top. Considering this fact alone we need to keep in place all of the good things we have going for us. Surely closing our beautiful rest areas can only be viewed as an admission of failure and a step backward.

We are asking for your help in keeping the rest areas in the state of Mississippi open. Let us not blindly follow a few other states who have hastily decided to close theirs. Instead let us capitalize on their failures and keep ours open.

We thank you for your consideration to our request and pledge our full club's support to you in any way that we might help.

Sincerely yours,
Bill Williams Jr.

HERMAN GLAZIER RETIRES AFTER SEVEN GOVERNORS

The June 15 retirement of gubernatorial aide Herman Glazier marks the end of one of the most outstanding public service careers in Mississippi and probably in this country.

When I became Governor, Herman had served six governors in succession. I knew when I came into office that I had to have someone like Herman on hand to help me with the day-to-day operations of the state. He agreed to stay on in the Governor's Office, and I became the seventh Governor to enjoy the expertise of this Rolling Fork attorney during my term.

I wish I could tell you all the great contributions that Herman has made to the State of Mississippi. But to list even his accomplishments during my four-year term would take far too long.

He is an expert on law and the Constitution and has helped all of us in determining on a day-to-day basis with the intricacies that mark the operation of the Governor's Office and all of state government.

At the beginning of our administration, the Legislature approved a law vastly reorganizing state government. Herman Glazier was the key to making that massive reorganization work in the short months that we had in 1984 to put the changes into place.

When we travel around the country, attending meetings with other Governors, Herman Glazier's name always comes up. He is probably known and respected by more Governors and former Governors than any gubernatorial staff member in this country.

Herman served in the Mississippi Legislature before becoming one of state's most admired executive staff members. He went on to serve Mississippi during the terms of Governors Ross Barnett, Paul B. Johnson, Jr., John Bell Williams, William L. Waller, Cliff Finch, William Winter and myself.

The State of Mississippi will lose a great resource when Herman retires, but we all wish him and his wife Delores many happy years of retirement.

EMERGING MISSISSIPPI LEADERS—TRAINED AND EAGER

One hundred young Mississippians, all emerging business and professional leaders, listened attentively as the candidates spoke, then answered questions. The young Mississippians wanted to hear from the candidates; they also wanted to hear gubernatorial candidates outline their plans for the advancement of this state.

The young Mississippians, representing every geographic section of the state and every segment of the economic community, were members of the Leadership Mississippi Alumni Association. All had attended the Mississippi Economic Council-sponsored Leadership Mississippi training program, and all have a deep interest in affairs of state.

The group, in fact, has just completed a two-year-long study of the needs of Mississippi's state government. Members of the group have already spoken out aggressively in support of education and in support of governor succession.

Now they are speaking out for governmental reorganization, tax reform, and improved health care. In addition to education and governor succession.

The observer at the weekend forum is impressed with the economic and political potential of this group of young Mississippians, all trained for leadership responsibilities, and all committed to new—and better—Mississippi.

You can expect to hear from the Leadership Mississippi Alumni Association in the years to come.

Women's Center offers sex education programs

Sex education is a life long process. In dealing with sex education, the Regional Women's Center at Sidel Memorial Hospital is offering a series of programs dealing with the sexual stages of women's lives, from adolescence to adult relationships.

Too often, questions about sexuality and "growing up" go unanswered by parents who either don't know the answers or are unable to talk to their children on sensitive subjects such as sex, birth control, normal maturity changes and menstruation.

The first program of this three-part series, "Adolescent Gynecology/Mother and Daughter Relationships", will be held Tuesday, June 23, at 10 a.m. in the Resource Suite. Girls ages 9-13 and their mothers are encouraged to attend together. The $5 fee includes lunch.

The program will focus on the many physical and emotional changes occurring during this time in a girl's life and the questions that mothers will likely be asked. The stages of development will be presented so women of all ages will be familiar with "growing up." Dr. Quita Morgan, a retired female physician with special training in adolescent gynecology, will present the stages of development.

The physical aspects of development vary from one female to another, and some changes are normal and should not cause concern. Dr. Jason Collins, and OB/GYN who practices in Sidel, will discuss these changes and provide facts about the menstrual cycle.

Parents can help their children understand these changes by giving them access to correct information and developing trusting, open communications with them. Dr. Patricia Aptaker, of Aptaker Psychological Associates, will discuss some common obstacles between mothers and daughters, and offer some tips on helping mothers be better prepared for the importance of motherhood.

The second program in the series is entitled "Teen Talk (Everything About Sex You Already Know, or Need to Know)." The program is geared to teens ages 13 and older and will be held Wednesday, June 24, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Resource Suite. The $5 fee includes lunch.

With the teenage pregnancy rate increasing and the severity of sexually transmitted diseases increasing, teens today need more accurate information about sex in order to make responsible decisions. Teens also need accurate information on skin care, both routine care and sun protection for the prevention of skin cancer.

Dr. James D. Sewell, a Sidel OB/GYN, will present and explain birth control methods and discuss what sexually transmitted diseases are, how they spread, and what to do. Dr. K. Bradley Frost, AASECT Certified Sex Therapist, will also discuss sexual issues. Dr. Frost received his post-doctoral training with the Masters and Johnson Institute and has worked with many adolescents and adults.

Dr. Elizabeth I. McBurney, board certified in dermatology, will discuss skin care, tips for having a clear complexion even with acne, and the prevention of skin cancer. Parents are encouraged to attend with their children.

The adult segment of the sex education series deals with adult couples. Couples are invited to attend together, but can attend without their partner. "More Romance, Better Sex!" deals with the importance of intimacy in relationships. This program will be held on Thursday, June 25, at 7:30 p.m. in the Resource Suite.

Dr. K. Bradley Frost will present some practical suggestions on how to enhance the intimacy level of your relationship and experience continued satisfaction with your mate.

Future programs sponsored by the Regional Women's Center will include "Yes, Virginia, There is Life After 50" with Dr. Patricia Aptaker. The July program will present information on learning to channel creativity, sexuality and nurturing needs.

Pre-registration is requested for all three programs.

For more information, or to pre-register for these classes, please call the Regional Women's Center at 646-0560. The Women's Resource Suite at Sidel Memorial Hospital is dedicated to educating everyone in the community by providing a continuing health education program at little or no cost. If you would like to be placed on a mailing list for future programs, please call the Regional Women's Center.

Filmed on Midway Island, a U.S. strategic base located at the far western end of the Hawaiian Islands chain, the program looks at the home to one-third of the world's total population of gooney birds.

Response to new type of exercise salon leads to plans for county-based factory

There is a new alternative available for Hancock County residents who want to keep in shape yet avoid strenuous exercise.

This alternative comes in the form of motorized tables which "take the work out of exercise" but still tone, firm and break down cellulite, according to Sandy Thornton of Body Toner of Bay St. Louis.

Body Toner Tables are a set of six figure-shaping tables designed to isolate and exercise one or more major muscle groups and are available in figure salons in Diamondhead, Waveland and Bay St. Louis.

Thornton explained the tables are a passive form of exercise, which is not new, only new to the Gulf Coast area.

The first salon was opened a couple of weeks ago in Diamondhead by Bernice and Prince Reynolds, who also serve a four-state area including Mississippi as district sales representatives for the Body Toner Salons.

Bay St. Louis and Waveland salons opened last week and within the next three weeks, salons in Kiln, Picayune and Orange Grove are scheduled to open.

Mrs. Reynolds reported Friday due to response in the southeastern United States district, the Oklahoma based corporation which builds Body Toner tables recently announced plans to open a factory in Hancock County.

She also said since the district headquarters are here in Hancock County, the factory will also be located here and may be in production as soon as fall of this year.

The Reynolds also expect several salons to open soon in southern Louisiana.

In addition to the passive exercise, the tables can be used for toning muscles.

"We know that this form of exercise is not for everyone but for many people it may be the only alternative," Thornton said.

"I have back problems and must do exercises to maintain mobility but sometimes the exercises leave me strained," she said.

"But on the Body Toner tables I can get all the exercise I need and feel good when the session is over," Thornton added.

According to Thornton, her doctor along with an area chiropractor have approved the table for use with various mobility problems.

"Using the tables, people with some physical limitations can maintain mobility and flexibility," she added.

The six tables include:

SIT-UP TABLE

Exercises upper stomach and diaphragm while firming and toning lower back; assists in doing 100 situps each session.

STRETCH TABLE

Exercises upper body muscle groups; improves posture by lifting ribcage; relieves shoulder area tension and stress; reduces excess fat while toning and firming.

LEG TABLE

Exercises the entire leg; slims and tones upper thigh and hips as well as eliminating outer thigh "saddle bag" appearance.

VIBRATION TABLE

Stimulates, relaxes, energizes and improves blood flow and helps eliminate excess water retention. Ideal for general health, hair, complexion and nails.

HIP TABLE

Exercises stomach and hip muscle groups while breaking down "cellulite" on hips and thighs; firms flabby buttocks; strengthens stomach and lower back.

WAIST-HIP TABLE

Tightens, tones and firms waist, abdomen and hips. Strengthens lower back and increases flexibility.

TOKLAS & STEIN

"Waiting for the Moon," starring Linda Hunt and Linda Bassett as writers Alice B. Toklas and Gertrude Stein, makes its television debut on "American Playhouse" at 9 p.m., Monday, June 15, on Mississippi ETV.

The film concentrates on a portrait of a possible Stein, put in a set of fictional, yet entirely plausible relationships with people she really knew.

The film is divided into five non-consecutive days from a three-month period between the news that Stein is dying to the final news that she is not dying.

In the spirit of Stein, "Waiting on the Moon" freely maneuvers time, place and character to present a portrait of the writer in her own modernist terms.

Also starring are Bruce McGill as Ernest Hemingway and Andrew McCarthy as American hitchhiker Henry Hopper.

A play review

Diamondhead actors enhance unremarkable 'Tomatoes' script

BY DENA BISNETTE

Diamondhead Little Theatre has taken a less-than-exciting script and enhanced it with good acting in its most recent production, "A Bad Year for Tomatoes."

The dinner theater production of the comedy, directed by Ed Scanlan, featured Missy Marshall, Rickey Thorp, Sally Rodrique, Dottie Overal, Clem Acker, Barbara Jo Fitch and Don Marshall.

Missy Marshall played Myra Marlowe, a television actress tired of Hollywood's wild life who takes a year off to write her autobiography in what she believes is a peaceful setting, Beaver Haven, telling her agent that she discovered the little town when she "had a flat tire."

Although she wore glamorous clothes more befitting Hollywood than Beaver Haven even when working in her garden, Marshall did not come across as the stereotypical spoiled star.

Instead, her performance portrayed a young woman who has never had a chance to see the real world and quickly finds it more exasperating than Tinseltown.

Some of her best scenes occurred when she became acquainted with the unusual people who inhabit Beaver Haven, when she attempted to be polite and hide her shock at some of the characters described by the town's "hospitality ladies," nearly wound up offending the neighborhood "witch" and met Pinney, a backwoods type who let himself into her house and then sold her all manner of goods while charging extra for containers.

The actress probably did more acting in Beaver Haven than in her entire career when she decided she would prefer not to be bothered by her neighbors and revived one of her television characters as her insane sister.

Marshall really stood out as Sister Sadie, a violent, bespectacled blond, then found herself in a tight spot when one of her neighbors reacted to Sadie in an unexpected manner.

Thorp, as her agent Tom Lamont, served as a good foil for Marshall. Lamont accepts the world of Hollywood and actually likes it, trying to lure the actress back into it for a reason not immediately revealed.

Thorp's low-key approach to Lamont gave the audience an agent who is really an easy-going person under a flashy veneer.

Two scene stealers were the hospitality ladies, a pair of undisguised busybodies played by Rodrique and Overal.

Rodrique, playing one of those people who says she normally does not gossip but constantly does so, teamed up with Overal to provide their new neighbor with her first introduction to the scandals of Beaver Haven.

Overal, as Reba Harper, was best later in the play in an encounter with Sadie and with a very funny description of Brother Leviticus, a snake-wielding, faith-healing preacher she believes will cure poor, crazy Sadie.

Rodrique, complete with a bandanna on her head and battle-scarred high top sneakers in her portrayal of Cora Gump, stole a scene when she revealed a sudden taste for alcohol while she cried over a fight with her husband and provided her actress neighbor with even more astounding dirt on Beaver Haven.

Fitch, as neighborhood witch Willa Mae Wilcox, provided a model of eccentricity, even sniffling around in her neighbor's cabinets on her first visit and promising to become "good, good friends" with her just because their astrological signs are right.

The witch darted her eyes back and forth and stood first too close, then too far away for comfortable conversation, getting laughs each time she shook her untidy wig.

She provided the play's suspense as she predicted a murder during a palm reading.

Acker played Pinney, the backwoodsman, and was the most creative performer in the show, injecting humor into lines that often consisted of only two words through a shuffling gate and an animal-like nod.

Pinney was at his funniest when he spotted Sadie and fell in love at first sight, then "come a sparkling" in a suit that even a used car salesman would refuse to wear, decked out with a top hat and a bouquet of swamp flowers.

Don Marshall made only a brief, but very official-looking, appearance as the county sheriff after the witch's prediction is taken seriously.

Scanlan's capable direction effectively utilized the entire stage, limited to a single set by the nature of the facilities at Diamondhead Country Club.

Assisting with the production were Edna Blackwell, props; Ann Clark, stage manager; Peter Smith, lights and sound; Don George, make-up; Scanlan, set design; Scanlan, Thorp and Bob Pflugfelder, set construction and decoration; Julian E. Raymond, dialogue coach and Jean Keen, publicity.

ACTRESS MYRA MARLOWE, played by Missy Marshall, tries to hide her shock at the scandalous behavior of Beaver Haven residents as related to her by the town's hospitality ladies, played by Sally Rodrique and

Slidell Memorial Hospital lab receives pathologists' recognition

The Laboratory at Slidell Memorial Hospital has been awarded a two-year accreditation by the Commission on Laboratory Accreditation of the College of American Pathologists (CAP), based on results of a recent on-site inspection. Hospital Administrator Robert Atkinson announced recently.

John K. Duckworth, MD, FCAP, commission chairman, advised the laboratory of this national recognition and congratulated its staff for the "excellent services they provide for patients and their physicians." The Slidell Memorial Hospital has one of the 3,600 CAP-accredited laboratories nationwide.

Began in the early 1960s, the college's program was the first peer-review program for clinical laboratory accreditation. Even before government agencies mandated it, pathologists voluntarily were inspecting and accrediting laboratories to maintain the highest quality laboratories possible.

Today the CAP Laboratory Accreditation Program is one of the few recognized by the federal government as requiring adherence to standards equal to or more stringent than the government's own. The inspection itself is one of the most rigorous a laboratory can experience, and may require up to a year of advance preparation by the laboratory staff.

The program uses unpaid but well-qualified volunteer pathologists, doctoral scientists, medical technologists, and pathology residents from college-accredited laboratories to inspect and evaluate laboratory services and provide unbiased consulting services to the laboratory. Each inspection team is headed by a board-certified pathologist with specialized training in the inspection process.

The inspectors examine the records and quality control of the laboratory for the preceding two years, as well as the education and qualifications of the total staff, the adequacy of the facilities, the equipment, laboratory safety, and how the laboratory is serving the patient.

The College of American Pathologists is a national medical specialty society of physicians certified by the American Board of Pathology.

PREPARING LUNCHES for the summer meal program at St. Rose Fifth Grade Center are Irma Whellen, left, and Sharon Ladner. The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District is sponsoring the program, which provides meals free of charge to children ages one year to 18 years. Breakfast is served from 8:30 a.m. until 9:30 a.m. and lunches are served from noon until 1:30 p.m. at St. Rose and Waveland Elementary School. ## U.S. flag is 110 years old today

Joe Pilet
Publicist
Friendship Oak
Chapter NS DAR

The Stars and Stripes, the birthday of which we observe on June 14, was created on that date in 1777 when the Continental Congress resolved: "That the flag of the 13 United States be 13 Stripes, alternate red and white, that the union be 13 stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation." There was no prescribed arrangement for the stars.

Through the years it has been the custom of patriotic Americans to review the symbolism of our national standard. The flag is an emblem of our unity, power and purpose as a nation.

When our National Flag was first flown by the Continental army General George Washington explained the symbols: "We take the stars from heaven, red from our mother country, separating it by white stripes, thus showing that we have separated from her, and the white stripes shall go down to posterity representing liberty."

On Flag Day in 1917 President

Wilson said: "This flag speaks to us of the past, of the men and women who went before us, and of the records they wrote upon it."

Each star in our flag represents a state of the union, however the stars represent the states collectively, not individually and no particular star may be designated as representative of any particular state.

In 1959 a star was added to the flag when Alaska was admitted, and in 1960 with the admission of Hawaii 50 stars appeared on the field of blue.

It is a little known fact that the DAR provided the silk flag that covered the coffin of John Paul Jones when his body was brought to America from France in 1906 for reinterment at the Naval Academy in Annapolis.

The original Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag was first used in 1892. This pledge, slightly altered, was approved by Congress June 22, 1942. The phrase "under God" was added. President Eisenhower said: "In that way we are reaffirming the transcendence of religious faith in America's heritage and future; in this way we shall constantly strengthen those spiritual weapons which forever will be our country's most powerful resource in peace and war."

The first and the only resolution of the First NS DAR Continental Congress in 1892 was to honor and respect the Flag of the United States.

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION—Mr. and Mrs. Albert N. Grass, left, and their daughter and son-in-law, William A. and Dianne Henry, were honored with a reception June 7 in honor of their fiftieth and twenty-fifth anniversaries, respectively. The Elk's Lodge in Metairie, La. was the setting for the celebration, where more than 200 relatives and friends attended. The Grasses were married on June 7, 1937 at St. James Major Catholic Church in New Orleans, and have resided in Waveland for most of their married life. Their wedding vows were renewed June 2 at Our Lady of the Gulf with the Reverend Johnny Plante officiating. In addition to Mrs. Henry, the couple has a son, Albert John Grass, and granddaughter, Mary Grass of Waveland. The Henrys reside in Franklin, Tenn. and have three children, Geri, Patrick and Michelle Henry. Mr. Grass is a retired municipal official with the City of Waveland, where he served for 20 years.

Our National anthem The Star Spangled Banner, written by Francis Scott Key, was officially approved by Congress in 1931. Words of the soul-stirring last stanza are: "Praise the Power that hath made and preserved us a nation...and the Star Spangled Banner in Triumph shall wave o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave."

Cedar Point School adds three grades

The Board of Cedar Point School has approved addition of fourth, fifth, and sixth grade curriculum for the 1987-88 school year.

In order to accommodate these students a facility is being prepared to house the second through sixth grades.

The faculty will include Mrs. Susan Genin and Mrs. Beth Benvenuti in addition to experienced specialty teachers in science, art, music, and theater.

Applications for student enrollment are now being accepted.

Mrs. Ann Riess, director, states that this decision is the result of interest and support expressed at a meeting of parents of elementary and pre-school students. Offers of assistance toward effecting this project are 'extremely generous,' she said.

Mrs. Riess adds that the expansion of facilities to include the upper grades will provide more physical space for all age groups, and thus enable classes which have been filled since March to accommodate more students.

Cedar Point School provides academic programs for children beginning at age three. A sequential progression of curriculum is followed at each level with individualization to assure mastery. Major subject areas are emphasized with enrichment activities for all students.

The school maintains small classes with a ratio of one teacher to ten students. Audio-visual aids including a computer are available on a regular basis.

A selection of over 3,000 books and periodicals are contained in the school's lending library. Physical education is offered daily. The non-institutional environment is centered around the students and their interests.

"Cedar Point School provides a well-rounded education and an opportunity to develop socially without the stress that many larger institutions create," Riess feels.

As a non-profit educational corporation Cedar Point supports a non-discriminatory policy. Students of all races, color, creed, national and

in Mississippi Gardens

By Milo Burnham
Horticulture Specialist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

It's a real let-down to go out to the vegetable garden and find a plant or several plants completely wilted when just a day earlier than appeared completely healthy.

Why does this happen? What causes perfectly healthy appearing plants to suddenly wilt and then die? It turns out that there are a number of answers to these questions.

Wilt in almost all cases is a plant's response to a lack of water. The individual plant cells that make up a leaf, stem or flower are like little balloons. When the cells are full of water the plant appears normal but when the cells aren't getting the water they need they become soft and the plant begins to collapse or wilt.

Wilted plants in the garden may mean that the soil is so dry that plant roots can't get enough water to meet the plant's needs. In this case the simple solution is to water the garden and apply a mulch to reduce water loss from the soil. This type of wilting is seldom permanent unless there is no way to water the garden. Some vegetable plants will also wilt in the midday sun but recover completely in late afternoon.

Wilt can also be caused by too much water. This happens when the garden soil is a poorly drained heavy clay that causes water to stand in parts of the garden following a heavy rain.

When the air spaces in the soil are filled with water for several hours the roots become oxygen starved, nonfunctional and the plants wilt. If the soil remains water logged the roots may die and of course then so do the plants.

Diseases are also responsible for the wilting of some plants. Fusarium wilt is a common disease of tomatoes and melons that is caused by fungi that live in the soil. Infected plants slowly wilt, turn yellow and die because the fungus growing in the lower part of the plant interferes with the movement of water from roots to the stems and leaves. One way to prevent this disease problem, particularly with tomatoes and melons, is to plant only resistant varieties.

Bacterial wilt, another disease of tomatoes, is caused by a bacterium that lives in the soil. Plants suddenly wilt and are frequently described as appearing as if boiling water was poured on them. This disease is common in south Mississippi and generally occurs when the weather is hot and the tomato plants have a heavy crop of green fruit.

As with fusarium wilt, there are no sprays or dusts for control of bacterial wilt of tomatoes once the plants are infected. There are also no recommended tomato varieties that are resistant to bacterial wilt. The best way to prevent this disease is not to plant tomatoes in the same location year after year.

Southern stem blight is another fungus that lives in the soil and attacks just about all vegetables except sweet corn. This fungus lives on organic matter in the soil and as the weather gets warm it attacks vegetable plants at a point just below the soil surface.

Plants wilt progressively over several days and eventually die. A typical sign is a white fungus growth on the plant stem at the soil surface. There are no sprays or dusts for control and there are no resistant varieties.

Insects may be directly or indirectly responsible for wilting plants. Squash vine borers feeding in squash plant stems interfere with water getting from the roots and therefore the plants wilt. Cucumber beetles feeding on plants may transmit bacterial wilt in cucumbers and melons while squash bugs and stink bugs may transmit gummy stem blight in melons and therefore be indirectly responsible for the wilting.

Hoe blight, the result of careless use of a hoe while weeding the garden, is a frequent cause of wilting. Cultivating too close to the vegetable plants with resulting damage to stems and roots is a preventable situation. Frequent deep cultivation with a tiller can also cut vegetable plant roots and cause the plants to wilt.

Over fertilization and improper fertilizer placement can also cause wilting in garden plants. Since fertilizers are salts they can damage plant roots. When too much is applied it competes with the plants for available soil moisture.

When vegetable plants wilt your first thought is to water them but actually you should begin by trying to discover the reason for the wilting. You may be able to correct the situation.
